

The Swainsboro Kiwanian

June 30, 2009

In the absence of President Bobby Seamans, Vice President David Bartram called the meeting to order promptly at 7:00. He asked Gary Couse to lead the Pledge of Allegiance and Tim Goodman to offer the invocation. We had a fair attendance for a hot summer evening.

Guests: Other than our speaker, Whitney Bush, we had no guests.

Sports: Tobe Karrh brought us the sports news for the past week. It seems that the Atlanta Braves have won another baseball game. Joey Logano won the Lenox Industrial Tools 301. Kenny Perry won the Travelers Championship (golf) in Cromwell, Connecticut. In South Africa, Brazil defeated the United States to win the Confederations Cup, for you soccer fans. In tennis, the Wimbledon continues, with Venus Williams going after her third consecutive championship. With Rafael Nadal out, Roger Federer hopes to win a sixth championship along with a record 15th Grand Slam title. And now, once again, you are up to date on sports. Thanks, Tobe.

Court: Judge Charles Brewer had planned to take the night off and not hold court, but Bill Breedlove upset those well laid plans by coming in after the bell sounded. He was duly fined for this offense. Better luck next time, Judge.

Announcements: On July 16, at high noon, our club will be providing hotdogs and the trimmings for the Teen Reading Club at Franklin Memorial Library. Hold this date, and stay tuned for more details.

For those who wish to participate in the District raffle, you need to contact Tim Goodman right away. By the time we meet again, on July 14, it will be all closed out.

Program: Program Chair David Bartram introduced Whitney Bush, Miss East Georgia College, as his speaker. Whitney has just returned from the Miss Georgia Pageant in Columbus, and she was filled with enthusiasm about her experiences there. She talked about how dedicated the people involved with the pageant were and the fact that she really enjoyed being a participant. One of the highlights of her week was a visit to the National Infantry Museum at Fort Benning, near Columbus. She urged everyone to visit this museum if they have the opportunity. It was a very interesting program, and we thank Whitney for bringing it to us. We also congratulate her on her accomplishments. Thanks to David for arranging the program.

Door Prizes: Ed Bolton provided a lemon cheese layer cake, baked by Petite Garrett. John Black won it. L.H. Weise won the Domino's pizza, provided by Chris Cann. Jim Hendrickson and Tobe Karrh won the take out meals.
